Tutnell and Cobley.

OF these two Hamlets there is very little mention in Record, other than the grant of them to the King by that Fine from the Abbot and Convent of Woodsley; and their disposall, with Hewell, to the before specified Lord Windsor, as the Patent before cited imports.

Ipsley.

THIS was possess'd in the Conquerors time by Osbernus fil. Ricardi (of whom in Atton-Cantilupe I shall say more) and of him then held by one Hugh, having at that time a Church; as also a Mill rated at xvi^d, and woods extending to one mile in length and half a mile in breadth, all which were valued at xl^s; but before the Norman Invasion it belonged to Earl Algar (of whom in Cobentre I have spoke.) I am of opinion that this Hugh was progenitor to that ancient family of Hubaud, which hath continued Lords of this Mannour in a lineall succession till now: for in H. 2. time I do find one Hugh Hubald tenant unto Osbernus fil. Hugonis, grandchild to the before specified Osbernus, though we now do, and for a long time through corruptnesse in expression have pronounced it Hubaud, changing the I into U, as is frequent in the Northern parts, and thereupon so written it to this day. But the first that I meet with in this Countie surnamed Hubold is Will. Hubold in 5 Steph. whom I suppose to have been son to the first Hugh, and father to the said Hugh Hubald, for the time and other circumstances will well enough bear it. To which Hugh succeeded Henry, whom I find sometimes written Hubald, and sometimes Hubaut; and to him another Henry, though I cannot perfectly distinguish where the first ceased; wherefore I have, upon consideration of the time, seated him for part of H. 2. Ric. 1. and King John's reign, and accordingly have framed the ensuing Pedegree.

This elder Henry was a partie to severall Fines levied of lands lying in this place, and elsewhere, about the beginning of K. John's time, in which it is written * Appellet and Aspelet: but I suppose he was dead before the 13 of that Kings reign; for then doth it appear that Dionysia de Bereford answered for half a Knights Fee here in Wppeley (for so it is recorded) which was then certified amongst the fees belonging to the Honour of Ricardus-Castle in Berefordshire. And in 20 H. 3. Henry Hubouth (son to the said Henry) was taxed for one Knights fee in Appeleg, under the title of those Fees belonging to the before specified Castle; so also in 26 H. 3. Which Henry became a person of much action in this County during the time he lived: for in 45 H. 3. I find^b him in Commission for the Gaol delivery at Warwick, and in 49 H. 3. one of those that helpt to hold out Benilwo. Castle against the K. for w^{ch} this Mannour with the rest of his lands were seized^d on: but that offence of his and others being wiped off by the Decree called Dictum de Benilwojth (as I have elsewhere shewed) he was again a Commissioner^e for the Goal delivery at Warwick; sc. in 53, 54, 56 H. 3. 1, 2, 3, 6 and 7 E. 1. In 13 E. 1. being questioned^f for withdrawing his suit from the County Court, and claiming a Court Leet within this his Mannour of Wppele; by one^g Inquis. it appears that he disclaimed any such challenge; yet by another^h, whereby John de Hastings was required to shew by what authority he exercised that libertie in his Mannour of Aston-Cantilupe, and extended it into this of Ipſley, it is evident, that W. de Cantilupe the elder, together with this Henry had done it in K. Henr. 3. time, whereupon that Prescription was allowed; which Cantilupes were great men, and having an eminent seat there, coveted to get the observance of those neighbouring Inhabitants, as it seems, pretending that this Lordship was immediately held of that their Mannour of Aston, and it of Ricard's Castle, in regard that all of them were possess^t by Osbernus fil. Ricardi in the Conquerors time: For though by some Inquisitions it is said to be held of Ricard's-Castle, yet in others was it found to be held of that Mannour; and at last, viz. in 1 E. 1. whether by the potency of Cantilupe, or whether by agreement with Mortimer of Ricard's-Castle, (heir to Osbernus fil. Ricardi, as in Farnborough is shewed) I know not, was certifiedⁱ to be held of George de Cantilupe; and so also in^k 15 E. 1. of John de Hastings (heir unto Cantilupe) upon the death of the same Henry Hubaud himself, and at severall^l times after.

To which Henry, who was a Knight^m before he died, succeeded John Hubaud, within age at his Father's death; for in 12 E. 2. did Sir Eymerie Pauncefote K^t grantⁿ and sell to S^r W. Lucie of Cherlecofe K^t the marriage of the said John, to the intent that he should take to wife Magaret the daughter of the said S^r W. Lucie; which it seems he did accordingly, as may appear by a Fine levied^o in 14 E. 2. whereby two parts of this Mannour were settled upon the said S^r Emeric and Joan his wife, for the life of the said Joan (whom I suppose to have been mother to the same John) and afterwards to return unto the same John Hubaud and Margaret, and the heirs of the said John. This John Hubaud, with many other persons of quality, was in 15 E. 2. employed^p into Wales upon the Kings service, for which he had special Letters of Protection. In 13 E. 3. he was a K^t, and in 18. one of the Commissioners, in this County, assigned to enquire what persons were seized of Lands to the yearly value of C s. and so upwards to a thousand pounds per an. over and above reprises and to certifye the same. In 19 E. 3. he had^q Summons to furnish himself with Horse and Armes against the Feast of S. Laurence to attend the King in his French Expedition: and was also assigned^r one of the Commissioners of Array in this County, as to the providing of Archers for that service: but he then went not, as it seems; for I find^u that within 3 months after such his Summons, the K. receiving advertisement that he was somewhat weak in body, so that he could not well undergoc that employment, as also that two of his sons were then in his service beyond Sea; viz. the one in Britanny and the other in Gascoign, he had a special exemption^w from that voyage.

In 20 E. 3. he was again appointed * one of the Commissioners in this County for arraying of Clx. Archers for the Wars of France; as also assigned one of the Collectors of a xvth and xth then granted in Parliament for the Kings service, and bore for his Armes Sable a Cheveron betwixt 3. Leopards heads jesant flower de luces Argent: which coat was assumed by him or his Ancestors for their relation to Cantilupe in the tenure of this Mannour, without doubt. To this Sir John Hubaud succeeded John his son and heir; of whom all that I find memorable is, that in 29 E. 3. he was one of the Knights for this Shire in the Parliament then held at Westminster: And to him Thomas, a Commissioner in 2 R. 2. for assessing and collecting of a Subsidy in this County, then granted to the King in Parliament; which Thomas had issue Richard Hubaud Esquier, who is ranked amongst those persons of chief note in this Shire, that in 12 H. 6. Made Oath for observance of certain Articles concluded on in the Parliament then holden, and bore for his Armes the three Leopards heads without a Cheveron, with a labell of 3. points in chief: But after him I have not seen any thing very memorable of this family, relating to their publique employments, untill Queen Eliz. time, that John Hubaud Esquier, a person highly favoured by Robert Earl of Leicester, who bore so mighty a sway in those days, was by him in 14. of the said Queens reign, pro bono consilio, favore, & fideli amicitia multipliciter impenso & impendendo (as are the words of his Charter) constituted Constable of Kenilworth Castle, and chief Steward of all his Mannours and lands lying in this Countie; as also in the Counties of Salop, Worcester, and Montgomery; and chief Ranger of all his Forests, Parks, and Chafes within those Lordships, having the Fee of x li. per annum granted unto him during life for that service.

The Church (dedicated to S. Peter) was in anno 1291. (19 E. 1. valued at xii. marks: so also in 14 E. 3. but in 26 H. 8. at xii li. at which time the Procurations and Synodalls were ix s. v d. ob.

In the body of the Church, towards the North side, is there a raised Monument, but of a much meaner structure than either of those in the Chancell (which are represented on the last page) for it is onely of plaine stone-work with an Alabaster cover, whereon is the portraiture of a man and woman gravd, and this Epitaph on the Verge;

Here lyeth the bodies of Nicholas Hubaud esquier, and Doxothye his Wife; the which Nicholas deceased the second day of May in the yere of our Lord M D llii; and the said Doxothy deceased the xvi day of May in the yere of our Lord M D lvi. Upon whose soules God have mercy Amen, Studley.

Descending lower on the same side of Artois I come to Studley, within which Parish these places of note are situate; scil. Papleborow, Skilts, Holt and Padhongre. In the Conquerors time the greatest part thereof, viz. four hides (in wh ch also stood the Church and a M. li) was possess'd by Will. fil. Corbucionis, whereunto belonged a Furnace yeilding annually xix. Horse-loads of Salt, and woods extending to one mile in length, and half as much in breadch: All which were then estimated at C s. having been the freehold of Swain before the Norman Invasion. But the other part, which in Edward the Confessors days belong'd to Godric, and at that time to Will. Buenvasleth, containing onely one hide besides the woods, that were three furlongs in length and two in breadch, and valued therewith at x s. was held of him by one William.

Of the before specified Will. fil. Corbucion, I find that he was a man of eminent note in this County, having lands in Alminton, Kineton, Sekmton, Wathato, Hodenhull, Donningham, Welton, Coundon, Barcheston, Papleborough, Ecclethall, Grafton,
