
Rahway, N. J., on Wednesday last, celebrated the 120th anniversary of the battle of Spanktown, in which the Americans, under General Maxwell, with only three men killed and twelve wounded, put the British troops to flight with 300 killed and wounded. Rahway formerly was called Spanktown, because there in the last century Rev. Mr. Hubble one morning after breakfast paddled his wife with a pancake turner.

A novel idea will be carried out the coming summer by six Grand Rapids men. They will charter will make their h
to the different

2/28/1897-Kansas City