

Inquisition of Lunacy.

James H. Hubble, residing about twelve miles North of Somerset, was found, by regular inquisition, to be a lunatic, on Saturday last.

We had much rather see some of his relatives or friends take him in charge for a short time until he can be sent to the asylum than to see him languishing in a loathsome jail. Mr. H. a few years since was one of our most worthy and industrious citizens, with plenty of this world's goods, but, like many others, misfortunes and troubles have not only robbed him of his property, but, that which is dearer still, his happiness and mind, and left him but a wreck of his former self.

Court of Es

5/8/1874

Green Riley Dykes, and citizens of our country, were brought before