

THE HUSTONVILLE FAIR.

Our special reporter informs us by telephone that the Hustonville Fair opened most auspiciously at 9:30 Wednesday. The weather was pleasant, the crowd large for an opening day and the exhibition of stock unexceptionally good. A number of counties are represented and competition is lively:

1. The first premium, for Jack under 1 year old, was awarded to J. K. Baughman, of Lincoln and the certificate to Logan Caldwell, of Boyle.

2 Jack 1 year old and under 2, Joe Withers, prem. and cert.

3. Jack 2 years and under 3, W.G. Hubble, prem; James McWhorter, cert.

4. Jack any age, Logan Caldwell, prem., W. G. Hubble, cert.

5. Jennet under 2 years, Logan Caldwell, prem., J. K. Baughman

6. Jennet any age, Logan Caldwell prem.

THE will of Levi Hubble, which was probated this week, appoints his wife, Mrs. Martha J. Hubble, and his nephew, L. F. Hubble, executors, and they qualified without security, as it directed. The estate is equally divided between his wife and three children, W. G. and Misses Allie P. and Laura Hubble, the shares of the two latter to be held in trust for the present by their mother.

The prohibitionists held a mass meeting yesterday to send delegates to the convention, which meets in Louisville on the 19th, to nominate candidates for State offices. Chairman A. W. Carpenter presided and Peter Carter acted as secretary. Rev. J. Q. Montgomery addressed the meeting and the following list of delegates were appointed: A. W. Carpenter, J. Q. Montgomery, J. T. Hackley, Dr. Traylor, A. H. Bastin, J. H. Collier, Mack Holmes, J. T. O'Hair, W. G. Hubble, M. N. Early, Lewis Gooch and John Holmes. No instructions were given, but the delegates are to vote as a unit. Chairman Carpenter tells us that he does not think any nominations will be made for county offices.

Don't Like my "Infidel Paper."

SHELBY CITY, Sept. 5, '91.

C. C. Moore, Lexington, Ky.

DEAR SIR—For some time you have been sending me your infidel paper.

I am a Prohibitionist but not an infidel, and I think that as infidelity overbalances the temperance cause in your paper that lets me out. If you will send me your bill to date I will settle with you and then you will please discontinue the Blade.

Yours respectfully,
W. G. HUBBLE.

I have told you repeatedly that I never send bills to anybody.

If you don't know and don't want to guess at it let it go.

You are not very anxious to pay it anyhow, and it will be all the same to me in a hundred years.

I Think the Southern Journal

The heavy fall of snow ended with Thursday's storm, but it has snowed at intervals repeatedly since, without adding much to the depth, which reached 15 inches on a level and five feet in drifts. On roads not frequently used it was almost impossible to drive vehicles, so deep was the snow. It took four horses to pull the hearse that went for the remains of poor Will Inbille, and they could hardly draw it. Down at Somerset the depth was stated at two feet on a level. A good deal has melted, but it still lies several feet in places and covers the earth everywhere, except on roads and streets that are used. The mercury went down below 20° Friday and the weather continues very disagreeable. Yesterday the prediction read, "Cloudy weather, with light snow or rain, warmer Tuesday."

DEATH'S DOINGS.

—HUBBLE.—It is always a sad duty to write of a death, especially when the victim is young and full of promise, as was the subject of this article. Mr. William G. Hubble, after a short illness of grip, which finally attacked the brain, breathed his last Friday, just after noon. He was the only son of the late Levi Hubble since whose death he has been the mainstay of a devoted mother and two lovely sisters, Misses Alice and Laura, and who are now bowed down with an overwhelming grief at his loss. Religious, moral, honorable and lightened he was well thought of by all who knew him and sincerely loved by those more intimate with his real worth and manly nature. A man of fine physique, with no hereditary taint of disease, and with a handsome, open countenance, Will Hubble was the picture of health and his life promised to be a long and useful one, but God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform, and at the age of 25 he is taken from home and friends. May those nearest and dearest to him realize that it is the hand of God that has smitten their hearts and like true christians find consolation in knowing that their son and brother was called away for some wise purpose, not to be revealed, perhaps, till they are reunited around the throne of God. The funeral sermon was preached at McCormack's church, of which Mr. Hubble had long been a good and active member, by Eld. Montgomery to the large crowd of friends who braved the very bad weather to pay the last tribute of respect. The remains were then followed to Buffalo Cemetery and laid with his father's.

—A telegram was received here Sunday announcing the death of Columbus Barrow, brother of the late Barrow, which occurred at his

—It has been reported that the stock, cattle and other property of W. G. Hubble would be disposed of at public outcry since his death, but such is not the case. The farm will be run as heretofore and the business will be managed by the administrator when one has qualified. Three good jacks and a horse will make the present season there and their pedigrees will be seen later on.

L. F. Hubble.

Resolutions on the Death of W. G. Hubble.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Sunday school at McCormacks, March 27:

WHEREAS, our Heavenly Father has removed our much loved brother, Wm. G. Hubble, from our midst, being suddenly cut down in the vigor of young manhood, while yet in his 25th year. When we reflect that we shall no more hold sweet converse with him in our church and Sunday-school, the burning tears dim our eyes, yet they should be tears of brilliant hope and not of dark despair. Let us raise our eyes to the throne of God and repeat the hope inspiring words of Him who sits thereon: "I am the resurrection and the life." Be it

Resolved, That in his death our Sunday-school has lost one of its brightest, most active and useful members and while with sad hearts we bow to this "mysterious dispensation," we will tenderly cherish his memory and try to imitate his many excellent traits of character.

2. That the removal of such a pure Christian leaves a vacancy and casts a shadow that is deeply realized by the members of the church, Sunday-school and all its friends and will prove an irreparable loss, grief for which can only be soothed by the sweet thought that Heaven has gained one more star that will brightly shine in the crown of righteousness.

3. That we tender our warmest sympathy to his sorrow-stricken mother and sisters in this affliction, trusting that they may fully realize that our loss is his gain.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished the family of our deceased brother, be spread upon the minutes of our school and be furnished the INTERIOR JOURNAL for publication.
